

Paris Airport CDG (France)

Case Study

The largest airport in France and second largest in Europe, it is Air France's international hub. It comprises more than 600 companies and about 75,500 employees, so it is one of the most important business locations in the Paris region. It handles 66 million passengers annually, making it number eight in the world.

Charles de Gaulle Airport trusts in record security products, and has installed several different FlipFlow models here at a range of security levels; all are doing reliable service.
